NEW YORK DAYS AGAINST THE 183-DAY LIMIT

Dark bar: 90 New York days. Gold line: the 183-day limit. Warnings would have gone out at 120 and 150 days; neither was reached.

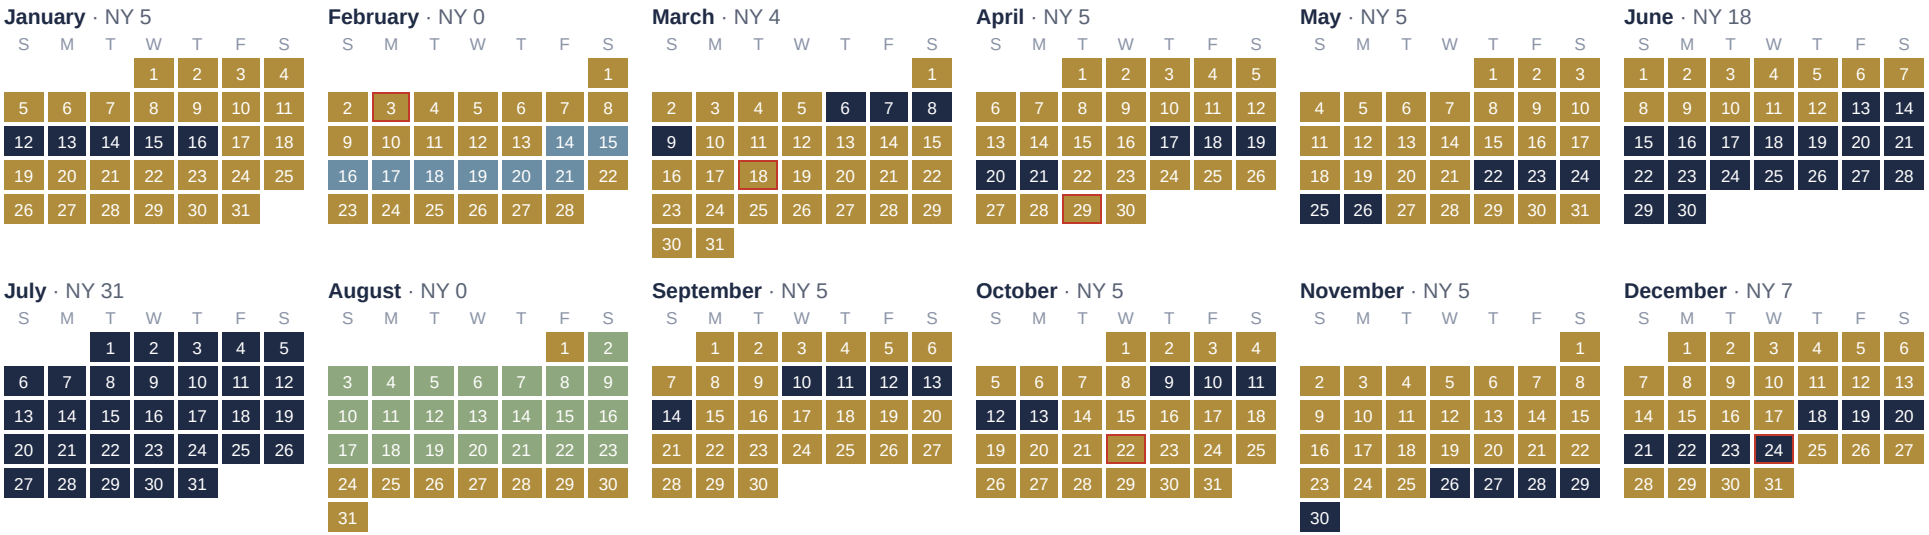
The two tests	Result for 2025
The day count. He keeps an apartment in New York, so more than 183 days in New York would make him a New York resident for the year.	Passed. 90 New York days, 93 under the limit.
Where home is (domicile). New York weighs five factors: homes, active business ties, time, "near and dear" items and family.	Florida on four of five. One New York tie remains: a seat on a New York company's board (page 5).
Days where the sources disagreed	5 days, each explained with a document (page 4). Every day is assigned with at least two sources.

HOW TO READ THIS FILE

- Every day of the year is assigned to one place, using the phone's location log checked against card charges, tolls, flights and appointments.
- Any part of a day in New York counts as a full New York day, even a travel day. We count it that way here, which is the conservative choice.
- Page 2 shows the whole year at a glance. Page 3 shows one month day by day with every source. Page 4 explains every day where the sources disagreed. Page 5 is the domicile checklist. Pages 6 to 10 list all 365 days.
- This file reports where he was, with the records behind each day. It is the record an auditor asks for, kept as the year happened rather than rebuilt years later.

THE YEAR AT A GLANCE · JANUARY 1 TO DECEMBER 31, 2025

Florida (245) · New York (90) · Colorado (8) · Italy (22) · Sources disagreed, explained on page 4



Running count of New York days, at month end	Jan	Feb	Mar	Apr	May	Jun	Jul	Aug	Sep	Oct	Nov	Dec
Days so far (limit 183)	5	5	9	14	19	37	68	68	73	78	83	90

How to read this page. Each square is one day, colored by where he was. Travel days between Florida and New York are colored New York, because any part of a day in New York counts. The running count shows the New York total growing through the year; summer in New York is the biggest block.

How to read this page. Each row is one day. The phone says where he was; the charges, tolls, flights and appointments are independent records that should tell the same story. "Agree" means they do. March 6 and March 9 are travel days and count as New York. On March 18 a New York store charge appeared on a Florida day; page 4 explains it. Every day of the year carries this detail in Baratelli Bankable, and pages 6 to 10 list all 365 days in short form.

DAYS WHERE THE SOURCES DISAGREED · JANUARY 1 TO DECEMBER 31, 2025

5 DAYS OUT OF 365, EACH EXPLAINED WITH A DOCUMENT

Date	What didn't match	The explanation and the document behind it	Counted as
Mon Feb 3	Phone: no location recorded	Phone was off for repair (Apple Store receipt, West Palm Beach). Two Palm Beach charges that afternoon and a SunPass toll place him in Florida.	Florida
Tue Mar 18	Card: Bergdorf Goodman, New York NY	Online order shipped to the Palm Beach house; order confirmation and delivery receipt on file. Phone and the Publix charge place him in Florida.	Florida
Tue Apr 29	Card: Duane Reade, New York NY	Charge made by his wife, Ellen, on the joint card while she visited their daughter (her own file shows New York that day). Phone and a West Palm Beach charge place him in Florida.	Florida
Wed Oct 22	Toll: E-ZPass, Henry Hudson Bridge NY	The New York car's tag is used by his son, James; the E-ZPass account lists that tag on the son's vehicle. Phone, two Palm Beach charges and a golf tee time place him in Florida.	Florida
Wed Dec 24	Flight landed in Florida at 11:52 p.m.	He was in New York for part of the day, and any part of a day in New York counts as a New York day. Counted as New York.	New York

WHY THESE MATTER

- Auditors look for exactly these days: a New York charge on a day the taxpayer says he was in Florida.
- Each one was explained the month it happened, while the receipt, the order confirmation or the person who made the charge was easy to find.
- Explained years later, the same day is hard to prove. Explained at the time, it is a one-line answer with a document attached.

THE RULES WE FOLLOW

- When the sources can't be reconciled, the day is counted as New York. A file that leans conservative is one an auditor believes.
- The client gives us every phone, card and account in use, and confirms that in writing each year.
- We report where he was. We don't move days to fit a number.

HOW TO READ THIS PAGE

- Being under 183 days isn't the end of it. New York also asks where home really is, weighing the five factors in the table.
- Auditors give the most weight to the homes and to active business ties. The board seat is the one New York tie left, so we track those meetings and keep the minutes.
- The Florida steps on the left are the paperwork that backs the move: each one is dated, and the document is in the file.
